

Project Consulting in Pharma and Biotech

ASPIRAS wishes you a lot of success in autumn 2005! What's new in October 2005?

Starting activities in nanobiotechnology

Since summer 2005 Cathrin Pauly is a member of the board of NanoBioNet (<http://www.nanobionet.de>), the interdisciplinary network of excellence in nanobiotechnology. Nanobiotechnology is a cross-disciplinary technology combining elements of both nano- and biotechnology thereby establishing methods by which physiologically safe and biocompatible materials and surfaces can be developed for use in biology, medicine, medicinal technical applications, cosmetics and food technology.
